Property Description

A dream house inspired by the Italian Renaissance, just minutes from one of the most beautiful beaches in Costa Rica. This beautiful home is located in the Bosques del Lago residential area, near Puerto Carrillo, less than five minutes from Playa Carrillo, one of Costa Rica's top beaches. Bosques del Lago is a small community of Costa Ricans and foreigners that is extremely tranquil and secure, ideal for families or vacation rentals. The name "Villa Palladio" refers to the Italian architect Andrea Palladio, one of the most celebrated figures of the Renaissance. In the 16th century, Palladio designed numerous palaces and country houses in Northern Italy, particularly in the Veneto region (around Venice). Palladio's ingenuity was so influential that his interpretation of the structural and ornamental language of antiquity led to the creation of an architectural movement known as "Palladianism," which took strong root in English and North American architecture, from Palladio's time to the present.
